AN UNMETRIC CLIENT SUCCESS STORY

unmetric

HomeAway is the world's leading online marketplace for the vacation rental industry, with sites representing over one million paid listings of vacation rental homes in 190 countries. Through HomeAway, owners and property managers offer an extensive selection of vacation homes that provide travelers with memorable experiences and benefits, including more room to relax and added privacy, for less than the cost of traditional hotel accommodations.

The Unmetric Advantage

HomeAway started using Unmetric in 2014 to help expand its reach, engagement and brand building on social media. Unmetric enables HomeAway to easily analyze and understand the quality of their content and engagement levels compared to direct competitors and other travel sector brands. Today, HomeAway also uses Unmetric to research and generate new content ideas, as well as to easily create regular reports on reach, brand visibility and earned engagement.

The Result

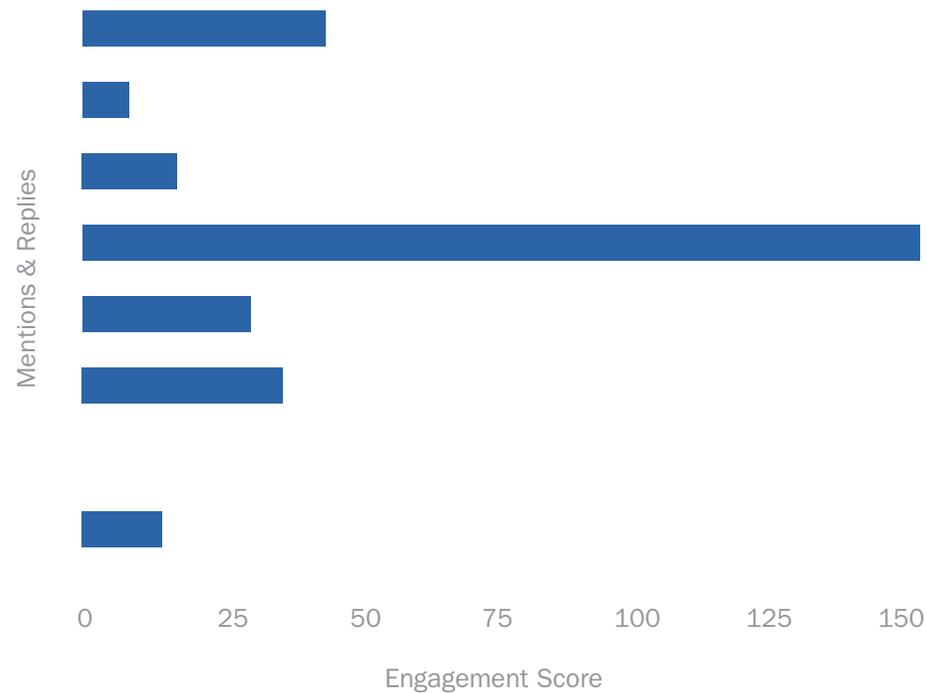

“As the leading online vacation rental marketplace, brand building and driving content engagement is very important to us. Using Unmetric for competitive insights has enabled us to consistently outperform our competitors on social media. Additionally, the ability to research and explore highly engaging content from other brands has taken the guesswork out of building content plans around themes that have already proven to be engaging to social audiences, ultimately saving us time and resources.”
